Lenten Message

Fr Pat Jackson SAC

Lent leading up to Easter is to some extent unreal. Easter comes and then we settle back to where we were before. When you think about it, the Jews experienced Easter first – the Passover – before they had to race away into the uncertainties of the desert – standing in God in the midst of struggle. Jesus was driven into the desert by the Spirit after he was assured of his standing as Son of the Father. And Lent really comes after Easter for us, in the sense that we can't go back and become an unredeemed people waiting for our Saviour. We already are saved. We have the assurance of Christ's life in us already. But we have to produce the fruits of that life in ourselves and that's where the struggle, the temptation, the spiritual warfare, that Lent stands for comes in.

The desert is the place of the test, just as life is for each one of us. Testing, temptation is not a sin. Because we are tempted, sorely tried in many areas of our lives, e.g. breast cancer, a marriage break up, loss of work, doesn't mean we are in sin. It's only when we give in to evil, then there's sin.

Temptation has to do with who I am before God. Temptation attacks that unique relationship, the vocation that I have from and with God. The temptation to eat of the tree of good and evil expresses in symbol that at some point man and woman want to deny being a creature, and want to be like God, to have the ultimate say over their lives, independently of God. They wanted to taste good and evil and be unaffected. When they gave in, sin entered our world. Something went radically wrong – a disease with self, God, others, even the cosmos. They found themselves not like gods, but naked, broken, cut off. To taste evil is against God's very design. He made us good, for goodness' sake.

Jesus, the new Adam undid our sin. "He did not cling to his equality with God but emptied himself ...becoming obedient even to death, death by crucifixion." If we want God to work in our lives, there's a fundamental condition or attitude we need, which is obedience or submission to the Father's design for our lives. Temptation, when used in scripture, is not so much the inducement to give in to evil, as the crucible in which our personal freedom is refined, purified, tested and gains its quality. From temptation, from the desert, from Lent, we come out with a new power of conviction.

Lent is a quiet reflective time when we get ready for Easter. During the five weeks of Lent, we journey with Catechumens who are preparing for the great Night of Nights - the mystery of Christ's Death-Resurrection - into which they will be baptised. They challenge us by the freshness of their eager faith, to be renewed ourselves and to be a welcoming faith community into which they are gathered.

In this magazine, we share news, views and reflections of the way the UAC (Union of Catholic Apostolate) lives the vision of St. Vincent Pallotti here in Australia.

Preparing for our review

On Friday the 22 February (what a significant day to start) at Kew we had the first open day of our Review. Led by Dr Robert Dixon (Bob) we were shown the stark reality of the present day church in Australia using statistics from the latest census. The question relevant for the UAC links into the question the whole church in Australia is pondering at the moment: "What is God asking of the UAC here in Australia today?" The NCC, the coordinating body of the Pallottine family in Australia, have undertaken this Review. We hope the survey will lead to some honest answers to stimulate the growth of the Pallottine family. By letting go of what does not serve us, and developing what stimulates the growth of the Vincent's dream amongst us, the Pallottine family may continue to flourish.

We encourage you to complete the survey online by holding down the Control key and clicking on the following link. Or, you can type the link into your browser: <https://tinyurl.com/UACReview>

For those needing a paper copy please find one enclosed with this newsletter. Return your completed copy to the address on the survey.

Please take the time to let us know your views and ideas.

As this goes to print we will have just started Lent. I always find this a strange time of the year. Do I give up something? If so what? One year I gave up feeling guilty. I know it sounds weird but it was very challenging and worthwhile. Lately I have been taking on something. This year it is around being positive and thankfulness.

Launching of the infinity cross

At the UAC - AGM we had the official launch of the Infinity Cross here in Australia. Made in India, these beautiful crosses reflect the infinite love of God for each of us. – God's love has no beginning and no end, and spreads to and from the four corners of the earth. Cheryl is holding two in her hands to give you an indication of the sizes. They are available for purchase for $30 and $50. They will be available at Pallottine gatherings e.g. Cenacle Prayer and Gather and Share nights. Alternatively you can ring or email me to mail them to you (for the cost of the postage).
